

Internship Tender Team International Projects (Intranet)

Do you like to push the boundaries of the Netherlands, but prefer to go beyond them in the field of Civil Engineering? Then read on!

Your Challenge At Ballast Nedam International Projects, we focus on international projects with an emphasis on hydraulic and civil engineering works, such as ports and bridges, water treatment plants, and complex buildings like hospitals and airports. Our headquarters in Nieuwegein is where we take the first steps for future projects in various locations abroad, especially in Africa, the Caribbean, and Scandinavia. Each project brings unique local, logistical, and technical challenges. Together with our team, we develop sustainable, technically high-quality, and commercially attractive solutions for our clients. We then aim to execute these from design to construction. During this process, we highlight all relevant disciplines for our projects, such as design, work methods, equipment, planning, procurement, logistics, contractual matters, budgeting, organization, quality, safety, environment, and sustainability. As part of our team, you can contribute to innovative, sustainable, and solid solutions and their successful implementation. During your internship in our department, you will assist the tender team for these international projects. We mainly do this from our headquarters in Nieuwegein, but a trip abroad is never excluded. Do you enjoy learning more about civil works abroad and are you looking for an internship starting in February? Then we look forward to receiving your application!
